The DENR - Land Management Bureau (LMB) recognizes the need for a continuing formal learning and development intervention for its officials and employees through a customized scholarship program that is responsive to their priority competency requirements aligned with organizational goals and through the appropriate mode of instruction to improve their productivity, career, and professional growth in the Department.

A competent and professional workforce will likewise highly contribute to the attainment of the priority program of DENR Secretary Maria Yulo Loyzaga on improved land administration and management.

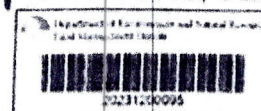

In partnership with the DENR- Human Resource Development Services, we still see the need to pursue efforts in developing a pool of land experts who shall lead and strategically initiate land reforms in the future.

With this, may we seek your help to identify who among the employees in your Region, including in the Field Offices are interested in pursuing a Masters in Land Administration and Management (M-LAM). Kindly disseminate this link: to all employees, for us to identify the number of interested applicants in this master's program. We would appreciate receiving your response no later than December 12, 2023.
