Dear Sir/Madam:

Given the urgency and rapid pace of climate change, there is a need for new strategies for effecting behavior change. Appealing to people's emotions, leveraging social norms, and the like are potential paths for the more sustainable use of natural resources and curbing climate change impacts, hence this training.

The National Gender and Development Focal Point System (NGADFPS), through the Gender and Development (GAD) Office will conduct a Webinar on Empowering Women and Men Gender-Responsive Climate Change Adaptation and Mitigation on 5 October 2021, 9:00 am to 5:00 p.m. via zoom platform.

This webinar aims to inform the participants on provincial trends on climate situation, the relationships of gender, climate change and disasters, and communicating the concerns on climate change to communities and influence their behavior to continue to reduce their carbon footprint and adopt a gender-responsive, climate-smart and resilient lifestyle.

We request the attendance and participation of two members of the GAD Focal Point System in CO Services, Bureaus, Attached Agencies, and five members from GAD Focal Point System in the Regional Offices using the online link below. DENR personnel who have attended the September 30 to October 1, 2021 Training should no longer attend, as it will be similar content, though shorter.

Time: Oct 5, 2021 09:00 AM Asia/Manila
