Hi

I am sorry to bother you, it's just I have a foreign LESSEE who is leasing my property and I believe is not abiding to the government set back regulations.

And finding it hard to actually now the rules and I am looking for an expert in the area to employ their services to judge for me

There is still currently construction in progress and another phase planned and still time to stop it if I could actually have an expert to definitely say what's legal as all the fire wall rules etc are confusing . and I am getting different answers and need an expert in the building regulations area.

The property is central Coron town and is titled I have attached a basic sketch plan of distance of setback so far the road on the left of the sketch plan says private but it is actually is a Barangay Road

Can you please recommend an expert or a direction I can move forward in please to ease my worry's and concerns , especially taking into account all the demolition orders have been issued in the last few years in tourist areas.

I really appreciate your advice or any recommendations thank you in advance.

Thanks
Jean Kate Rama
