Forest Protection Effectiveness Report

Region 04B - Puerto Princesa

Number of days analyzed: 30

2 Nov 2022 8:39 AM

This reports presents trends in observations of forest condition, regeneration, threats and indicator species. The combined presentation allows for an evaluation if protection efforts are effective, conservation targets are met and the forest achieves the desired future forest condition. Protection efforts are effective, when records of forest condition, regeneration and indicator species show an upward trend towards more observations more and denser regeneration, particularly in degraded forest areas. Increasing trends in indicator species suggest that the improved forest condition is providing a better habitat for forest dependent species. All trends presented are put in relation to the patrol effort to provide comparability. Forest cover data were derived from 2003 and 2010 NAMRIA land cover maps.

Trends of Observations per Patrol Kilometer in the Forest Conservation Area

Trend in Threats

A decreasing trend in threats in the forest conservation area mean effective forest protection; an increasing trend means the opposite.

Trend in Indicator Species

An increasing trend in indicator species in the forest conservation area means effective forest protection; a decreasing trend means the opposite.

Trends in Regeneration Density

An increasing trend in regeneration means effective forest protection; a decreasing trend means the opposite.
