Dear RD Claudio,

One of the priority directives of President Ferdinand R. Marcos, Jr. in his July 25, 2022 State of the Nation Address is to look at the freshwater supply situation in the country and adopt the Integrated Water Resource Management (IWRM) as the strategic framework for national water management, policy-making and planning.

In line thereto, the Department has identified among its strategic directions the conduct of water resources assessment by the National Water Resources Board, which necessitates improved data collection. Robust and reliable data will directly contribute to the ultimate goal of achieving water security. However, considering the NWRB's limited resources, it seeks the continued support of the Department through its Water Resources Utilization Sections (WRUS) in the regions as the former's deputized agents. Further, the Honorable Secretary Loyzaga has identified the role of the WRUS as an effective partner of NWRB in situ.

Hence, in order to optimize and rationalize our resources and move in the direction of achieving water security, there is a need to assess and redefine our plans and activities for the coming years.

In this regard, we are inviting all the WRUS officers and staff to a virtual meeting with the following agenda:

1. Brief Presentation of the National Water Security Roadmap
2. Review of the 2016 Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) and Work and Financial Plan,
3. Annual Accomplishments (2017-2021),
4. Proposed KPIs and activities for 2023,
5. Other matters.
